There is an amazing amount to make. I received this book to review. However all opinions expressed are my own. No monies were exchanged.

The book is excellent value, containing 100 projects from some of Search Press's best-selling authors. The projects cover a wide variety of crafts from including papercraft, sewing, knitting, crochet, sugarcraft, felt decorations, jewelry making, cross stitch, mosaic making, decoupage, polymer clay decorations and needlepoint. All projects are simple enough for experienced beginners and will also appeal to seasoned crafters. The tools and materials are inexpensive and widely available and these charming Christmas items make fabulous gifts for family and friends. Contributors include Sue Stratford, Frances McNaughton, Val Pierce, Alistair Macdonald, Georgie Godbold, Monica Russel, Corinne Lapierre, Carolyn Forster, Myra Hutton, Diane Boden, Sara Naumann, Anna Nikipiowicz, Jan Ollis, Michael Powell, Aimee Harman and May Corfield.

Decorate your home and make gifts for family and friends this Christmas with this bumper book of projects. Choose your craft from sewing, knitting, crochet, jewellery making, sugarcraft, polymer clay and papercraft and make something special. All of the projects in this large format (a bit taller than A4) book have been previously featured in a large number of Twenty To Make books. Having a selection of them in this new series allows not only for a larger page size but brings several different crafts together for a more varied choice. This is not the best place to learn to knit or crochet but this is obviously a book of projects rather than a book on how to begin doing the type of craft that requires plenty of instructions. You can indeed make a start in some crafts with this book however, as no prior knowledge is needed to do paper cutting, make figures from polymer clay or sugar paste, tackle some of the simpler stitching projects or many other things. The book is arranged in sections for each of the seven crafts and has a double page spread (or more) of technique know-how, including lists of what you need, tips and diagrams, lists of abbreviations and helpful information for beginners and improvers. Each project contains a page-sized photograph of the finished item plus a well spaced page of instructions, diagrams and materials list. Sometimes the item is shown in use as well as on a white background for ease of viewing, and at the front is a thumbnail gallery of all the projects in lieu of an index. The page edges are color coded so you can see the sections and at the back is a list of all the Twenty To Make books the projects have been previously featured in. Projects include decorations for tree, table, cake and home, pretty things to dress up outfits such as jewellery, corsages and accessories, there are Christmas themed items and those suitable for other times of the year which would make great gifts, cards, tags, boxes and more. As it says on the reverse of the cover both "experienced beginners and more seasoned crafters" can spend the long winter evenings happily creating many special things. * Myshef.com * All manner of crafts are included in this hefty volume of one hundred things to make for Christmas. If you buy it now, you'll have plenty of time to get cracking. I have an idea that this book will stand you in good stead for a few christmases to come. There are projects where you could involve the kids and have fun making days. The book is split into the following chapters: stitching, papercraft, knitting, jewellery, crochet, sugarcraft and polymer clay; each with know-how and projects. You can see all the projects from cross stitch to felt, cake toppings to pillows, earrings to crocheted snowflakes at a glance at the beginning of the book. Each project then has a full colour page photo and easy to follow instructions. Although there is a Xmas theme running through the book - snowflakes, Santa, reindeer and trees and so on, there are plenty of projects that could be used any time of the year such as the legwarmers, cuffs, jewellery and mug hugs. My favourite projects are the felt owl, pompom Santa, felt duck (looks more like a goose), needlepoint hen, Santa gift box (superb), fair isle wrist warmers and steampunk butterfly. With 240 pages this will keep avid crafters busy and also makes a great gift for crafting friends. * YarnsandFabrics.co.uk * September 2016 For those who love crafting for Christmas it's never too early to start! This book from Search Press is packed full of quick and easy projects you can make for the whole family and all of your friends! Choose from stitching, papercraft, knitting, jewellery crochet and modelling to make fabulous presents. All the projects have been carefully selected and bound together in one fabulous volume. So have fun crafting!

* Love to Make * Wow what an amazing array of things to make for Christmas. This book can keep you busy for many Christmas's to come. This book is packed full of so many crafts: Sewing, Papercraft, Cross Stitch, Knitting, Pompom Making, Sugarcraft, Decoupage. There are things for experienced crafters and beginners. You have projects to make for gifts, things to make to decorate and things to keep you warm. If you love to craft and you love Christmas then you have to buy this book. There is so much packed in. There is a useful Know-how section so that you can learn any of the techniques you need to know. The projects are designed by different people so you get so many different looks and styles. This really is a must have book. There are just so many projects to make that you are bound to find numerous things you want to make. I know I did. There is an amazing amount to make.

<http://www.crochetaddictuk.com/2016/09/100-little-christmas-gifts-to-make.html> * Crochet Addict UK * This amazing book is packed with delightful ideas for Christmas and is sure to please anyone looking for seasonal inspiration. The projects have been selected from the excellent Search Press series 'Twenty to Make' and cover all the needlecraft techniques, paper crafting, jewellery making, sugarcraft and polymer clay modelling - something for everyone and suitable for all levels of expertise. It is set to become a firm favourite year after year, especially when looking for ideas for gifts, decorations and fund-raising projects. Outstanding value for money and highly recommended.

* East Kent Embroiderers Guild * Issue 36 Homemade gifts are always a winner, and this compendium of craft idea for little christmas presents is a must have if you're stuck for inspiration. Choose from ideas involving, stitching, papercraft, knitting, jewellery making, crochet, sugarcraft and polymer clay modelling to create 100 simple festive gifts. Each one is prefaced with clear and straightforward instructions, a list of materials and helpful photographic illustrations. Upcycling projects include transforming old tin cans into pretty matching desk tidies using decouped paper napkins; machine sewing festive christmas bunting from green and red fabric, buttons and bias binding, or knitting a gorgeous little striped tea cosy with those leftover balls of coloured wool. What better way to enjoy a new craft, and give a homemade gift that shows you care.

* Reloved * This book is entitled "100 Little Christmas Gifts to Make" as there are ideas within this large (240 pages) volume to keep the family occupied throughout the whole year. There are plenty of opportunities to try out new skills and what I particularly like is the clear way each project is described with concise lists of materials and details of tools required so that everything necessary can be gathered together beforehand. It can be so frustrating if you've planned to make something, especially with children, only to find that it can't be completed without a visit to the shops! My 12 year old grand-daughter and I are in the process of making the colourful bunting (pages 20-21) - lots of skills to be learnt there (reading, careful measuring, cutting, ironing, and machining to name but a few and, with the help of a patient assistant at the fabric shop who happily cut lots of quarter metre lengths from a number of rolls of pretty material, we are enjoying working our way through this project. Quite a change from time spent playing video games! The Butterfly Friendship Bracelet (P141) is next on my grand-daughter's list and I might have a go at the Feltie Mice (P39) something new to me, or the Glittery Beanie (P161) as I haven't done any crocheting for years and would like to try it again! There are numerous skills to try and we are also enthusiastic about attempting some of the Sugarcraft ideas - hopefully the little Choirboy model (page 205) will grace our Christmas cake this year and by Christmas 2017 we may even have lots of items ready for little gifts.

* R tily * This is a big beautifully presented book with craft ideas for everyone. It is a lovely glossy book with lots of pictures and each section has some basic instructions for those unfamiliar with the required skills. A great resource for anyone wanting to try something new.

* K Thomas * I was shocked at how cram packed full of projects there was in this one book. This isn't just Christmas themed there's plenty of gift projects for any time of year which I thought made this an ideal crafters present. I love how the index at the front shows a picture of the craft which makes finding exactly what you want to make much faster. It's divided into different crafting areas by colour and this again makes finding what you need fast. I loved the ideas in this book and it's far better than any other I've seen out there at the moment. 5 stars from me.

* Clare Ollif * What a lovely book with plenty of quick projects. Variety of crafts. Where to start? I feel it will be my go to book. Love the contents pages with photos of projects. Christmas crochet star first I think!
