ACTIVITY 0 of 0 people found the following review helpful. In this age of electronic gadgets, Robaard's book offers young readers the opportunity to interact with their parents. By Bernardo Bernal A diary/book containing fun activities involving action verbs; an opportunity to talk about mom dad's pasts - juxtaposing them with our children's presents. 0 of 0 people found the following review helpful. The perfect gift for a child to give to their father By Dad of Divas This book would be the perfect gift for a child to give to their father. The book is meant to explore the child's and father's interests, dreams, likes and dislikes, favorite music, favorite things to do, and even a page for the family tree. The book's activities will give the child and father special one on one time together. It would become, in my opinion, a family treasure to read and share with other family members and close friends. If you are searching for a perfect memory maker for a child and father, this book may fit that experience for you. I received this for review - all opinions are my own

What better way for a child to celebrate a beloved parent than with a book of personal thoughts, memories, photos, and drawings? This lovely little scrapbook will make a wonderful gift for mom. Inside, children can fill it with facts about their mother where she was born, her favorite color, what she loved to do when she was little along with notes about the fun things they do together as a family. There are places for photos, spots for drawing, and lots of space for kids to express all the reasons they love their mom so much. A built-in pouch at the back of the book can be used to store photos, notes, and other mom-related mementos. The book also comes with a gift card that children can use to write a special message for their mother. A heartwarming keepsake that will be cherished for years.
